USDA Announces Harvest Prices for 2013 Crop Year Dry Pea Revenue Endorsement

Spokane, Wash., December 13, 2013 ---- USDA’s Risk Management Agency has announced the 2013 crop year harvest prices for the Dry Pea Revenue Endorsement in Idaho and Washington.

Dry Pea Revenue Endorsement Harvest Prices for Idaho and Washington

Dry Pea Type	Harvest Price
Spring Large Kabuli Chickpea	$0.26/lb.
Spring Small Kabuli Chickpea	$0.22/lb.
Spring Smooth Green/Yellow Pea	$0.14/lb.
Spring Lentils	$0.28/lb.

For producers who bought revenue protection under the 2013 crop year Dry Pea Revenue Endorsement for any of the spring types of green or yellow peas, lentils, or chickpeas (large and small), the harvest price is used to determine the calculated revenue. The harvest price is multiplied by the appraised and/or harvested production to determine the calculated revenue. The calculated revenue is subtracted from the final revenue guarantee to determine possible indemnities (insurance losses).

Producers should contact their insurance agent to learn additional program details related to these price announcements.
